

Mr. Chakaravarthi Narasimhan, is an eminent personality in the industrial circles in India. He as Chief Mentor of ACMA synthesized the essentials of best manufacturing practices to the industry. He is a mechanical engineer, specialised in Production engineering.

Underwent training in UK for 6 months for learning and implementing transfer line production system for electric motor manufacturing and rendered more than 30 years of service as head of Motor divisions at Crompton Greaves.

He joined Sundaram Clayton Ltd as President. He was the key person to bring Deming and Japanese Quality medal to an Indian Company. He has been actively involved in promotion, growth and development of the auto component industry in India in manufacturing sectors through Cluster programs . He is advisor to major auto component companies. Presently he is serving as a consultant to Sundaram Clayton ltd.

He is a recipient of many awards, to name a few, Asoka award from ISQ, Life time achievement award from Frost and Sullivan, Outstanding Industrial Engineer award from IIIE and Outstanding quality man award from NIQR.

C. Narasimhan is one of the key initiators for cluster programs in India for Auto components extended to Leather, Textiles for ACMA and CII.